DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 1/16/2004 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-6 and 8-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U. S. Patent No. 5,161,115 to Teshima et al.

With respect to claims 1, 4-6, and 8-11, Teshima et al. disclose a method for computer-supported error analysis of at least one of sensors and actuators in a technical system, the error analysis being in a form of a finite state description that exhibits states of the technical system, the method using a computer, comprising the steps of: a) determining a finite state description of the technical system for an error case of an error of at least one of a sensor and an actuator in the technical system (see col. 2, lines 51-64; col. 6, lines 36-41 and lines 57-59; col.

6, line 60 to col. 7, line 4; and col. 11, lines 29-40); b) determining a first set of achievable states for the technical system without errors using the finite state description; c) determining a second set of achievable states for the technical system having an error, using the finite state description d)forming a difference set from the first set and the second set; and e) determining result conditions from the difference set, the result conditions meeting prescribable conditions (see Figs. 10-12; col. 2, lines 35-50; col. 5, lines 3-31; col. 6, line 60 to col. 8, line 46; and col. 9, lines 32 to col. 10, line 22).

As to claims 2 and 3, Teshima et al. also disclose method steps a) through e) being implemented for all possible errors of sensors and actuators in the technical system (see Fig. 3; col. 4, lines 3-9; col. 7, lines 42-61; and col. 8, lines 34-46).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Teshima et al. in view of U. S. Patent No. 5,680,322 to Raimi et al.

As noted above, Teshima et al. disclose the claimed invention, except for the finite state description being realized by a finite automat formed as a binary decision diagram.

Raimi et al. teach the finite state description being realized by a finite automat formed as a binary decision diagram (see col. 7, lines 5-53).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Teshima et al.'s method to include the finite state description being realized by a finite automat formed as a binary decision diagram, as taught by Raimi et al., because a finite state machine having the symbolic representation of sets of states and of Boolean functions with the aid of binary decision diagram can often describe a FSM much more efficiently and concisely than explicit descriptions, such as explicit state graphs or explicit state tables (see col. 7, lines 45-49).

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-11 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
